

Wayne Braswell

The J. M. Smucker Company
Retired (2015)
Lexington, KY

Education

Mississippi State University, BS Agricultural Engineering
Mississippi State University, MBA
"Mastering the Art of Leadership," special leadership and organizational development course, Case Western University.

Professional Experience

Vice President for Coffee Operations
Vice President for Peanut Butter Operations
35 years of experience working for Proctor & Gamble and The J. M. Smucker Company

Background

After graduating from Mississippi State University. He has spent over thirty-five years working with two major consumer good companies, The Procter & Gamble Co. and The J. M. Smucker Company. He has experience in manufacturing engineering, finance, warehousing, and logistics. He also has experience in evaluating, acquitting, and integrating companies into operations. Before retiring, he served as the Vice-President of all coffee operations, which include Folgers, Millstone, Dunkin Donuts, and Cuban Coffee.

Since his retirement in 2015, he is actively involved in investing in others. His desire is to share with others from his experiences and from what he has learned from coaches in his life. He invests by volunteering to speak to students around the world, by teaching and coaching men in his community, and by teaching a weekly class to married couples at his church.

Wayne is the consummate corporate executive understanding and leading the fine balance between people and production.

Community Involvement-

Former advisory board member JLA (Global Analytical Food and Production Company).
Leading a new men's initiate with a local non-profit.
Frequent little league and youth club sports coach.
Serves as a deacon and teacher in his local church.

Family

Wayne is a widower, has 4 children, and 3 grandchildren.

